

Company Introduction

Emira Property Fund is a JSE-listed organisation seeking a dynamic independent non-executive director who is a property investment "guru" to join their board.

The Ideal Candidate for the Role

Focused, engaged and driven, the ideal candidate has a wealth of knowledge within the property industry.

With the drive and proven ability to contribute at board and committee level, you are well versed within the executive arena and have current or previous experience as a board director.

You are comfortable in your own skin, have a down-to-earth approach and your ambition has guided your success.

You would enjoy being part of a low-ego board where the commitment to making a positive difference through accountability and a responsible approach are key.

This position suits a director who has very sound experience of the property sector and property-related activities as well as specific expertise in asset and fund management related to directly-held and listed property vehicles.

The role requires in-depth knowledge and experience of investment strategies, demonstrated commercial acumen, experience in leading a company's growth and a track record of driving performance outcomes through human capital.

A deep understanding of local and global property trends will support you in this role.
